Why we want you

We are looking for volunteers to help with undertaking UK Butterfly Monitoring Scheme (UKBMS) transects across some of our reserves. The data from this work feeds into long term monitoring of national butterfly population trends. Prior experience in butterfly identification is helpful but not required - training in how to undertake the transect will be provided and there will be the opportunity to learn from experienced volunteers.

What you will be doing

- Walking butterfly transects
- Identifying butterfly species
- Entering survey results on UKBMS website

The skills you need

- Basic butterfly identification is a plus but not required
- Willingness to learn
- Ability to enter survey results on UKBMS website

What's in it for you

- Spending time on some wonderful nature reserves
- Improving butterfly identification
